

Grenoble Ecole de Management is a fast growing business school located in a vibrant and growing metropolitan area which features major research centers and universities in high tech industries (nanotechnologies, microelectronics and Energy). Grenoble Ecole de Management has the triple accreditation AACSB, EQUIS, AMBA. Degrees awarded include MBAs, DBAs, Masters and PhD. Grenoble Ecole de Management invites applications for tenure track associate and full professors in the following areas

- Finance
- Accountancy and cost control
- Management of innovation and Entrepreneurship
- Organization theory
- Business strategy

The new professors will be expected to teach mostly undergraduate and post graduate level courses (English or French). In addition, the successful candidate is expected to actively develop and coordinate a research agenda, as well as collaborate with researchers within the department, other departments or groups at Grenoble Ecole de Management, and internationally.

The ideal candidate has an outstanding international research record in management, finance, strategy or organization studies. He or she can document the ability to successfully develop a research agenda and produce output on the highest international level. The candidate should also have documented leadership skills in guiding a research team.
