

Call for Papers: FTG Summer Meeting at London Business School

The Finance Theory Group (FTG) (www.financetheory.org) will hold a summer meeting at the London Business School on June 25-26, 2018. The conference starts on Monday, June 25 at 9:30am with a breakfast.

Each day, we will have:

1. Seminar-style long presentations with ample time for interaction and discussion between talks
2. Shorter presentations for early-stage ideas
3. Time and space for co-authoring

The conference will conclude on the evening of June 26 with a conference dinner.

We welcome the participation of all interested researchers doing work in finance theory (in particular junior researchers). We want to emphasize that we welcome registration and submissions by non-FTG members (though FTG members get a preference in case of capacity constraints). Because space is limited, we expect participants to stay for the entire conference.

Please register here:

Anyone wishing to present Finance Theory papers at the conference should submit the paper and an abstract (for polished work) or just submit an extended abstract (for early-stage work) by sending them to the email address which is indicated on the form.

The deadline for submissions and applications is March 25. We will finalize the conference program by mid April.

We have blocked 25 rooms at the Danubius Hotel from June 24 to June 27 (£155 pounds per night). When booking your room please indicate you are participating in the LBS Finance Theory Group summer meeting.

Program Committee: James Dow (London Business School and FTG), Marcus Opp (Stockholm School of Economics and FTG).
