Professor/Associate Professor/Senior Lecturer/Lecturer (Education & Research - Firms, Market and Value) (Ref: P52231)

The above full time permanent posts are available from 1st September 2016 in the University of Exeter Business School.

ABOUT THE SCHOOL: We are proud that it has taken only a decade to establish the Business School as one of the UK's leading centres of business education and research, with a significant partnerships portfolio of more than 40 institutions globally. It is rapidly becoming one of the top business schools in the UK, ranked in the top 10 in the UK for all its main subject areas (The Times and Sunday Times Good University Guide 2015 and the Complete University Guide 2016) and is one of only 80 business schools worldwide to have both EQUIS and AMBA accreditations.

Research conducted at the Business School is internationally respected. We are home to internationally recognised centres of excellence, such as the ESRC/HMRC Tax Administration Research Centre. In the Research Excellence Framework (REF) 2014, 73% of the School's research was rated as world-leading or internationally-excellent. We want to continue to develop our research in distinctive areas, with a strong commitment to excellence with impact on business and society, research which underpins our teaching and inspires our staff and students.

The School is embarking on an exciting new research architecture based around a set of cross-departmental research clusters.

FIRMS, MARKETS AND VALUE: The Firms, Markets and Value research cluster is a vibrant research community composed of academic researchers working across all our departments. Members are interested in addressing a broad spectrum of issues in relation to the functioning of markets, firm behaviour and valuation, and rely on a common methodological ground that mainly uses theoretical/analytical or empirical/archival quantitative approaches.

To further our research in this area we are seeking to appoint motivated, dynamic and collegiate Lecturers, Senior Lecturers, Associate Professors and Professors with interests which align to this research cluster.

JOB QUALIFICATIONS: All applicants must be qualified to PhD level in a relevant subject (except at Lecturer level where nearing completion of PhD is acceptable), be able to demonstrate a strong potential for research leadership with a track record in refereed publications and involvement in submitting successful grant applications (except at Lecturer level where the ability to achieve these will be acceptable). Professors and Associate Professors will be leading authorities in their subject areas with an international reputation in the subject.

Applicants are encouraged to contact Dr Giovanna Michelin via email at g.michelon@exeter.ac.uk to discuss the posts further.

Our Exeter Academic initiative supports high performing academics to achieve their potential and develop their career.
