

Research economist

Employer: Research Centre, Deutsche Bundesbank

Location: Wilhelm-Epstein-Straße 14, Frankfurt am Main, 60431, Germany (map)

Field(s) of specialization: Econometrics - Finance - Macroeconomics; Monetary - Microeconomics - Other

Position type(s): Other academic

Application deadline: 21 Nov 2019

Posting end date: 21 Nov 2019

Ad text:

The Deutsche Bundesbank's Research Centre is interested in hiring economists with a PhD or PhD nearing completion in Economics, Finance or Econometrics. We will be conducting interviews at the European Job Market in Rotterdam, Netherlands, on 18-19 December 2019 and at the ASSA Annual Meeting in San Diego, United States, on 3-5 January 2020. The Bundesbank's Research Centre conducts research and provides research-based policy advice in a broad range of fields including macroeconomics, financial economics, banking, applied time series econometrics, household finance, and applied microeconomics (see <https://www.bundesbank.de/en/bundesbank/research/research-centre>). We are particularly interested in candidates with a focus on monetary policy implementation, consumer expectations, digital currencies, and sustainable finance. Interested researchers should submit the following documents via the EconJobMarket website: i) cover letter, stating whether you would prefer to be interviewed in Rotterdam or San Diego; ii) job market paper; iii) CV along with degree certificates; iv) at least two reference letters, submitted by referees. All documentation must be received by Thursday, 21 November 2019, cob. Any other enquiries can be sent to researchrecruiting@bundesbank.de

Application procedure

To apply for this position, log in and choose your Applicant role (or, if you have no account, create one).

Submission materials required

- Cover letter
- Curriculum vitae
- Job market paper
- Additional paper (optional)
- Additional paper (optional)
- Other file (optional)
- Letters of reference: 2