

Humorous videos for introductory finance courses

TBS Business School is inviting you to use its multi-award winning Open Teaching and Learning Resource. The resource includes humorous educational videos co-developed with the standup comedian Sammy Obeid (host of the popular Netflix series “100 Humans”). All videos and corresponding teaching notes can be used by business faculty at no cost (the teaching notes can be ordered from <https://tbs.bs/obeid>).

We trust you will find that our approach helps students become engaged with the material, gain insights into it, and retain it long-term.

Our finance-related humorous videos so far include:

1. The normal distribution and the 68-95-99.7 rule <https://youtu.be/qsbuqjdt0> (7:29)
2. Using normal distribution tables <https://youtu.be/DT7FzqZMY0o> (3:14)
3. Main U.S. company types <https://youtu.be/nMSW2MQkYk8> (3:02)
4. The balance sheet <https://youtu.be/VixQV7zqjic> (3:30)
5. The time value of money <https://youtu.be/g2Vn-HpY2hU> (3:05)
6. Loan amortization <https://youtu.be/F7oSTMBydiY> (7:30)
7. NPV https://youtu.be/UTVH7kllo_s (3:40)
8. Short selling <https://youtu.be/tsReKaVoNvw> (3:44)
9. Common measures of risk and return https://youtu.be/_yatYr4EG10 (3:16)
10. Market efficiency <https://youtu.be/vajingGVWq8> (4:19)

If the above videos make you wonder what would happen if a comedian actually replaced a finance professor in class, the answer is here <https://youtu.be/-3ZzNXlZrDI> (2:00)
